XXIII Winter Olympics

From February 9–25, the world's greatest athletes will compete for gold medals and glory at the XXIII Winter Olympics. South Korea will host the winter games in Pyeongchang, a city in Gangwon Province, high in the Taebaek Mountains of the north.

Chief among the battles to play out on snow and ice will be the contest for men's hockey gold. For the past five Winter Olympics, players from the National Hockey League have participated in the Olympics. This year the NHL is not building a break into its schedule to allow players to compete in the Olympics, a matter that is not sitting well with the athletes. The USA hopes to compete with Russia, Canada, Sweden, and Finland for the coveted medal.

Elsewhere on the ice, Russia's 17-year-old Evgenia Medvedeva is favored for gold in women's figure skating, but 17-year-old American Karen Chen is an up-and-coming phenom who might surprise the world. On the men's side, American Nathan Chen could take gold if he continues to impress with innovative new jumps.

On the slopes, Americans Lindsey Vonn and Mikaela Shiffrin are poised to make a run for gold in downhill skiing. Shaun White, red-haired maestro of the snowboard half-pipe, has been a fan favorite since he took gold in 2006.

Canada took gold in men's and women's curling in 2014. Will they repeat? While Germany swept all luge events in the Sochi Olympics, the Austrians will provide stiff competition this time. In bobsleigh, Nigeria will attempt to field its first-ever team as three former women's track stars introduce the cool sport to the African continent. And beyond sports, South Korea is introducing innovative technological advances to the Olympics—virtual reality will change the way we watch the games. These Winter Games are sure to offer both sport and spectacle.

Stick to Your Chops

Put away the forks and spoons—February 6 is Chopsticks Day. Today, over a quarter of the world's population uses these utensils for eating, but 5,000 years ago the first chopsticks were developed in China as a cooking tool. It was Confucius who said, "The honorable and upright man keeps well away from both the slaughterhouse and the kitchen. And he allows no knives at the table." This alone may have made chopsticks the preferred utensil in China. By the year AD 500, chopsticks had spread to Vietnam, Korea, and Japan, although in Japan chopsticks were originally used strictly in religious ceremonies. To the uninitiated, the use of chopsticks can be fraught with peril. One should never stand their chopsticks up in a bowl of rice, for it looks like the way rice is offered during a funeral ceremony. And never rest your chopsticks sideways across the top of a dish—use chopsticks holders!

A Penny for Your Thoughts

A penny may be worth only one cent, but after a lifetime of finding lost pennies, you could amass a small treasure. Consider the value of the cent on February 12, Lost Penny Day. Technically speaking, it costs 2.41 cents to mint one new penny. In 2013, the U.S. government spent $169 million to put $70 million worth of pennies in circulation. Some retail outlets have decided to do away with the penny altogether by rounding prices down to the nearest nickel.

In 2012, Canada decided to nip the problem in the bud and eliminate their penny, joining Britain, France, Israel, Spain, Australia, Denmark, Sweden, and New Zealand in phasing out their smallest denominations of coins. The truth is, once a small coin can no longer be used to purchase items but is only used to make change, it becomes more trouble than it's worth. So on February 12, the question remains, "Should I bother to pick up that lost penny?" It depends on whether you can buy anything with it, or whether you're the superstitious sort who is simply looking for some extra luck.

Making Hearts Whole

February is Mend-a-Broken-Heart Month, and scientists are quick to argue that hearts can really be broken as a result of extreme grief or social rejection. Brain studies show a direct connection between emotions and physical health. But the good news is that both can be mended. Heartbreak is often the result of feelings of loss after a breakup. Psychologists explain that spending time with a romantic partner causes your identities to become intertwined. Losing or being rejected by that partner, therefore, leads to feelings of confusion due to a loss of your sense of self. The best way to mend your heart is to become yourself again: exercise, try new hobbies, socialize with other people. All of these things will challenge you to rediscover your joys and fall in love with yourself all over again in the process.

Where Music Meets Medicine

You may have heard of the healing power of music, but have you heard of sound healing? This is the belief that sound, music, and chants can heal the sick. Skeptical? Try listening to the beats for yourself on February 14, the 16th annual World Sound Healing Day.

People have relaxed to soothing sounds for a long time. Falling rain, wind blowing through trees, and singing crickets are easy to summon on bedside clocks and electronic devices. But true sound healing is an ancient form of medicine. Many different cultures have used the power of sound to restore health and relieve pain. Chanting, the deep vibrations of an Aboriginal didgeridoo, gongs, Tibetan singing bowls, tuning forks—all of these tools produce deep, resonant sounds typical of a sound healing, or sound therapy, session. But do they really work?

While music is a known de-stressor, there are no studies that demonstrate definite health benefits of sound therapy. But patients who feel a release from both physical pain and emotional stress beg to differ, as do sound healers. Some healers explain that sound vibrations are not just heard but felt in ways that lower heart rate, relax brain wave patterns, and reduce respiratory rates. Other healers claim that they can tune instruments such as gongs to the vibration of planet Earth and other celestial bodies. A good gong emits a healing energy wave that can stimulate all the cells and nerves in the body. If sickness is due to the body's frequencies being out of tune, healing vibrations restore these frequencies to balance. Still others explain that, like acupuncture, sound therapy unblocks and redirects the energy throughout the body.

When it comes to the power of sound healing, theories abound. Perhaps the best way to think about sound healing is that it is akin to the power of prayer. Jonathan Goldman, director of the Sound Healers Association, believes that vocalizing what you want a sound to accomplish can help you heal yourself and others.

February Birthdays

In astrology, those born between February 1–18 are Water Bearers of Aquarius. They are creative and intellectual philosophers at heart, getting to the root of problems and using their energy and passion for the benefit of others. Those born between February 19–28 are born under Pisces. Friendly and selfless, they are always willing to help others with their hearts on their sleeves. Thanks to an intuitive understanding of life, Pisces make deep connections with other living beings.

The Tramp

For many, Charlie Chaplin is known for his most memorable character, “the Tramp,” a good-natured, bumbling vagrant.

The Tramp made his big screen debut on February 17, 1914, in the silent film Kid Auto Races at Venice. The Tramp became an international icon of the silent era of film, and even when talkies became all the rage, Charlie Chaplin refused to speak while in character, most likely because the Tramp was supposed to be American and Chaplin had a British accent. What made the Tramp so beloved? Maybe it was his sharp social commentary during the turbulent era of industrialization. Maybe it was the Tramp's embodiment and support of the “American Dream.” Or maybe it was that adorable moustache and cane. Whatever the reason, the Tramp is adored all over the world.
